WE NOMINATE

John Shepherd Mount, 35-year old "pollster" and a fourth-generation Princetonian, who this month has been primarily responsible for bringing into being the now incorporated Institute for Wage-Earner Opinion, the first distinctively new opinion-sampling organization to see the light of day in Princeton in the past decade. On the basis of ten years of first-hand experience, initially as director of magazine research and in recent months a key figure in the overall research activities of the Princeton-based firm of Gallup and Robinson, it is Mount's conviction that industry, hucksters, publications and the Nation know little about American wage-earners—meaning in this instance some 68,000,000 workers engaged in production and service industries and generally reimbursed at an hourly rate.

Where any number of research organizations have been concerned with the roles of organized labor in the related "sciences" of industrial and public relations, Mount and his associates are interested in the reactions and aspirations of the individual wage-earner, including the hopes and habits of his wife and children. For instance, in pondering the question, "What has been the effect of the current recession?", the newly born Institute would be as aware of changes in purchasing patterns, and customers' attitudes, as it would be of economic hardship. First off, according to Mount, the Institute will concentrate on a specialized information for subscribers, then a syndicated service for newspapers and finally "custom-made research projects" tailored to expressed needs.

Against the back-drop of a growing, increasingly complex Princeton, Mount came of age. He completed his studies in Princeton High School, took a year at the Hun School and qualified for his Princeton University degree with the Class of 1946. In the interim, during World War II, he gave nearly two years to the American Field Service, supporting the Eighth Army in Italy as an ambulance-driver and returning to the classroom "still in the grade of private." He joined Gallup and Robinson immediately following graduation from Nassau Hall and over the years gradually assumed responsibility for conducting special survey projects for such blue-chip operations as General Electric, Colgate-Palmolive Peet, Westinghouse, General Mills and Chrysler Motors.

Mount, whose great-grandfather was among the early developers of farming acreage in the Penns' Neck area, has long been active in local Republican organizations. Appointed to the Princeton Township Committee in the summer of 1956—replacing the first Democrat to gain Township office within memory—he was elected to a three-year term in his own right the following November and is now Committeeman-in-charge of the Township's health, welfare and sanitation programs. The father of four youngsters, ranging in age from seven years to six months, Mount is one of the newly designated team-captains in the climactic YM-YW Campaign and in his free moments ranks among the successful practitioners of the "Do-It-Yourself Science."

For his singular and abiding interest in the intriguing topic of "What makes the wage-earner tick?"; for adding still another dimension to the Princeton Community's polling operations; for moving forward on his own in what has been called "The Second Age of the Brontosaurus"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

RECESSIONLESS TOWN

Princeton Keeps Smiling. As news of the nation's recession trend and anti-recession measures continued to hog the headlines this week, Princetonians continued to thank their lucky stars they aren't a part of the economic crisis. Publicized often as a community that is being squeezed by Trenton industrial growth to the south and New Brunswick industrial growth to the north, Princeton, with tongue-in-cheek perhaps, could point to the fact that the others, not Princeton, are feeling the "squeeze", right now.

Of course, the auto dealers—even the auto dealers in a recessionless town—were cognizant of harder-than-usual times. This could be traced directly to the distant industrial areas, where cars are made and where production has bogged down. It could also be traced to the prevalent talk of recession—even in a recessionless town—which tends to keep people away from the market until such "talk" fades away.

To combat the evils of recession "talk" and to try to determine exactly what is going on in American automotive business, Frank Shelton of Shelton Motor Company last week took a contingent of four Princetonians from different businesses to Philadelphia to watch the launching of the Delaware Valley's "You Auto Buy Now" campaign. There, they heard the philosophy of automobile dealers that is expected to pull the industry out of the current doldrums: Don't try to sell to the 5,000,000 Americans not working. Sell to one of the 70,000,000 who are working!"

Mr. Shelton, who is as happy as any other Princetonian that the unemployment problem hasn't hit here, returned to his own business realizing that "enthusiasm, aggressiveness and determination"—the Philadelphia dealers' bywords—should help him improve on sales that already are ahead of the national average for 1958. (It was noted by some of the Philadelphians that these stimuli also come in handy when competing with sales of foreign-make cars, which, incidentally, have reportedly enjoyed "a phenomenal success" in Princeton so far this year).

Overdue Leveling Off. A spokesman for Nassau Motors observed this week that "business is 28 percent off this quarter," as opposed to the same quarter in 1957, but he said he is "very optimistic" because, in other towns, business has been off as much as 50 percent. "The present situation represents a long-overdue leveling off," he said, predicting that "things will climb in the near future to a higher point than before."

Along the same lines, a representative of Prince Chevrolet confided that "we are busy as ever in sales, but not in profits. In other words, our deals are very close.' But, he added with assurance, "thing aren't too bad—not so bad as people think they are."

Princetonians have come to think things are pretty bad elsewhere, but not at home. The big reason for this feeling, of course, is the fact that industry lies around Princeton, yet hasn't moved close enough—in the "hurt" fields at any rate—for Princeton to notice the pinch. Only Applied Science Corporation of Princeton has experienced a serious employment cutback since the recession trend started, but most of those laid off have found jobs with other companies—and ASCOP last week made something of a comeback by leasing part of its new plant to RCA.

Construction workers, even in Princeton, found themselves idle many days during the winter months. The bad weather had more to do with this situation than bad times, however, and now, with spring in the air, construction is booming in Princeton. In fact, it might be safe to say that construction in Princeton today is at a peak never reached before in the history of the town.

Another Sale Planned. Taking its cue from the Delaware Valley auto dealers, the Princeton Business Association announced this week it will sponsor a downtown sale, probably a two-day affair, at the end of the third week of May. Not that business is bad—in fact, it is quite good—but it is felt by association leaders that the spirit of buying must be maintained, that recession "talk" must not be given a chance to do its dirty work and that the way to handle both is through another cooperative sale.

Support of the PBA's optimism, and the optimism of merchants in general in Princeton, is to be found in the current issue of TOWN TOPICS. Whereas advertising in the comparable issue last year called for only 32 pages, the current issue runs to 40 pages, a TOWN TOPICS' record for this particular time of year.

A typical answer to TOWN TOPICS' queries about the present status of business in Princeton was offered by the proprietors of Gene Seal Flowers: "We were very busy January and February, and Easter was better than 1957. The flower business is off generally in New Jersey industrial towns, but not here. We were cleaned out of Easter flowers while many other towns had left-over azaleas and numerous other flowers."

It was the same all over the Princeton area. Manning's Wayside Furniture reported its best quarter in history, despite difficulties imposed by the worst winter in years. Ralph D. Hulit, president of Hulit's Shoes, said the recession hasn't had any serious effects on Princeton and noted that business—the shoe business, anyhow—has been equal to 1957 so far this year.

Since the beginning of the recession trend last fall, the Princeton Shopping Center has sustained two business casualties: Norman Roberts, a women's dress store, and Princeton Appliance Company. Observers are agreed, however, that these two businesses vacated due to the nature of their merchandise or policies rather than due to an absence of customers on the Mall. On the contrary, Shopping Center merchants generally have voiced an opinion that 1958 to date has been the area's best selling year.

Things may be tough here and there, but they aren't tough all over. Princetonians haven't heard the voice of economic gloom, apparently so audible in other communities. As one downtown druggist put it quite succintly the other day: "This is the busiest recession I've ever been through!"

PERSONALITIES

Gilbert Lea, Province Line Road, who this week assumes a new position in the advertising world as he switches from his post as advertising director at McCall's to that of vice-president of New York-based Ogilvy, Benson and Mather. Among his new duties will be the role of assistant to the president, former Princetonian (while associated with Dr. George Gallup) David Ogilvy.

Harold L. Humes, onetime Princeton resident, graduate of Princeton High School ('43) and son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Humes, Rosedale Road, who this week earned words of praise from a number of critics for his first novel, "The Underground City," a massive, intricate, philosophical volume, 775 pages long, published by Random House and priced at $4.95. Commented Newsweek magazine, noting that the author spent four years writing his France-based "spirit of the times": "The book is a work of power, maturity and distinction. . .an impressive debut of a new novelist."

Nick Kovalakides, 242 Nassau Street, who this week made his official bow as a member of the University of Maryland freshman track team by erasing a Maryland javelin record set by the late Bill Guckeyson, one of the Terps' all-time great athletes, 21 years ago. Sparking a talent-loaded freshman squad, which won every event in its opening meet, the 18-year-old Princeton native threw his specialty 210 feet, 5½ inches, or two feet better than the old Maryland mark. It was a fine early-spring toss for Kovalakides, who last June established a New Jersey record of 211 feet, 8¾ inches while performing for Princeton High School.

ROUND-UP

AROUND TOWN: The frustrating Jacob J. Mayer murder case, apparently baffling law enforcement officials from here to Trenton and elsewhere, left the front pages of New Jersey dailies this past week and, as a matter of fact, disappeared from many papers entirely . . . persistent detectives continued to pursue leads throughout the Trenton area, in Newark and as far south as Mobile, Ala., questioning a number of suspects, but none seemed to be paying off . . . a major break in the case, which reached its climax to date with the removal of the grocery store manager's body from the Delaware and Raritan Canal in Princeton Township, did not come last weekend, as hoped, and, if police were nearing any such break, they weren't admitting it as TOWN TOPICS went to press.

Lawrence Township patrolmen, not closely associated with the Mayer dilemma, kept busy during the past week operating a speed trap in their municipality . . . no less tahn 135 autoists were caught and fined in Lawrence in a period of seven days, and Police Chief Joseph Stonicker assured drivers the trap will continue in operation "indefinitely in various parts of the Township" . . . here in Princeton Township, patrolmen were alerted four times in as many days as motorists ran into and killed deer on the highways . . . two of the animals were killed on Bruere's Hill, one causing considerable damage to the car involved, and one each were killed on Rosedale Road and State Road.

Monday morning, the Princeton Business Association decided on a coordinated advertising campaign in the fall, including ads ballyhooing the increased parking space downtown and ads listing specifically the hours different downtown businesses are open . . . of note, the PBA agreed to try once again to get Borough Council to keep parking meters working Friday evenings, providing 70 merchants will cooperate in pushing the plan . . . the Princeton Lions Club's annual broom sale continued this week, with $1,000 already collected for the organization's worthy cause (the eye clinic at Princeton Hospital) and another $2,000 badly needed . . . second quarter taxes will be due May 1, with an eight

SHORT SHOTS: At a meeting of its board of directors Tuespercent interest fee being added to delinquent accounts thereafter . . . the long-anticipated and long-needed curbing and widening of Route 27 through Kingston is progressing on schedule.

Cynthia Bull, 12, of 61 Cleveland Lane, received cuts on her head and had to be treated at Fordham Hospital Sunday afternoon after a gang of juveniles hurled sticks, stones and large pieces of brick from a bridge on a sightseeing boat on the Harlem River . . . three other adult passengers among the 402 persons on board the Circle Line's excursion vessel also required hospital treatment before being released.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL PLANS
Board Announces Program.
Princeton Township's Board of Education will ask for authorization to borrow up to $1,145,000 for the construction and equipping of two new school buildings. The Board announced its plans this week. A public hearing will be held May 1 at 8 p.m. at Valley Road.

Each of the schools, one on the Johnson tract just off Rosedale Road near Stony Brook and one on the corner of Riverside and Prospect will at first consist of a "chassis" and ten regular classrooms. By 1963, if Township growth continues at its present rate, each school will need an addition that will bring it up to the approximate size of Littlebrook.

When the schools have reached their full size in 1963, each one will represent roughly the same construction cost as Littlebrook, according to Township estimates. Littlebrook cost $725,000.

The design calls for square modular units containing four classrooms, two lavatories, minimal corridor space and space for a heating unit. Each classroom has direct access outdoors and each room has its own sink for science work. The kindergarten unit is completely separate with its own playground.

Both schools have a small library, a multi-purpose room, a teachers' room, a combination supply room and teachers' workroom, office space, cafeteria facilities and an outdoor covered play area that will also serve as protected space for children waiting to be picked up.

Economy Features. In designing the new schools—which are not identical in appearance despite their use of identical modular units—architect Martin Beck has incorporated many economy features.

The modular units are connected by covered outdoor corridors, cheaper than indoor corridor space.

There are no gyms, the covered outdoor play area can be converted to a gym at a later date. The multi-purpose room, which will serve for eating, assembly and music, can be used as a playroom.

Modular units save construction time and labor costs because each one is exactly like the other. They can be assembled all in one spot and moved to the other site as needed. Also, they are inexpensive to add when more space is needed.

Township board members point out that one of the greatest economies will be effected in the changing transportation situation. This transportation saving would not be possible if one larger complete school were built now with a second one following in a few years.

Construction of the Riverside school will eliminate two regular buses and most of a kindergarten shuttle thereby saving $3,000 a year. Redrawing existing routes in the Johnson section will save $7,000 a year. These sums can be used to balance the costs of interest and amortization on the initial cost of two buildings.

At both sites, the 11.5 acre Riverside site, and the 15 acre Johnson tract, architects have planned the school buildings to fit the sites and to provide the shortest possible access roads—the latter both for convenience and economy.

Access to the Riverside school, which faces Riverside, will be from both Prospect and Riverside. Access to the Johnson school will be from Rosedale along a road that is actually Terhune. It will eventually be continued beyond the school by Princeton Township.

Rationale. The Board's decision to build two small schools has the support of the Citizens' Advisory Committee and the Staff Advisory Committee. School board officials estimate that a "No" vote by the Township electorate on May 6 would delay the entire school program by a year, and raise the definite possibility of double sessions in 1959. If the building referendum passes, construction is expected to start this September. The schools would be completed and ready for classes by September, 1959.

FULL SPEED AHEAD

To Widen Snowden Lane. Snowden Lane, with a pavement that no waverages something like 16 feet in width, will be expanded to 26 feet from Nassau Street to Franklin Avenue by summer's end, the Princeton Township Committee announced in the wee hours Tuesday morning. The governing body's final decision came after a two-hour executive session, which followed an emotional two-hour public hearing on the controversial subject Monday evening.

In explaining the project, which actually received State approval as long ago as last year, the Committee emphasized that the widening plan represents a compromise resulting from previous discussions with many residents of Snowden Lane. The Township obtained two important concessions from the State Highway Department, handling the construction under a state aid program: (1) the State agreed to a 26-foot width instead of its standard requirement of 30 feet and (2) the State agreed to installation of curbs only where they are necessary to train water into catchbasins and at intersections.

Despite heated objections from Monday's "packed house," which insisted that Snowden is a "neighborhood street," the Committee stressed the importance of Snowden as a "radial street" serving many sections of the municipality. "Snowden Lane will undoubtedly continue to serve more and more people, since it is one of only two radial roads serving the eastern section of the Township between Routes 206 and 27," the Committee stated following its unanimous decision. "A traffic count conducted by the Engineering Department indicates that approximately three cars per minute pass along Snowden Lane during the relatively quiet period from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m."

The Committee further emphasized that Snowden is a "substandard" street as far as width, crown and drainage are concerned. "The bridge over Harry's Brook has deteriorated to such an extent that it will have to be

Men On The Spot

During the course of Monday evening's red-hot public hearing at Township Hall on the widening of Snowden Lane, the municipality's attorney, Gordon D. Griffin, remained judiciously quiet. His lack of active participation in the lively debate was quite understandable, for Mr. Griffin and his family reside at 119 Snowden—right in the middle of the area being discussed.

Finally, as the open meeting neared its conclusion, a member of the audience, obviously a determined opponent of the widening project, asked the Township Committee if the Snowden residents might not seek an injunction to have the project stopped. Mayor Charles A. Hufford was obliged to refer the matter to the Township attorney for his legal opinion.

Mr. Griffin, utilizing the "good neighbor policy" all the way, came up with a quick retort that resulted in the lightest moment of a far-from-light evening. Said the attorney: "The best advice I can give you is to seek counsel."

replaced regardless of other plans, and Mercer County has scheduled this work in its 1958 budget.

To Raze Five Trees. The Committee noted that it is making every effort to avoid or to correct problems which Snowden residents have anticipated. As now constituted, the project's plan calls for removal of only five trees—and the Township will work closely with the contractor to assure that his work is carried out with a minimum of inconvenience to the residents effected. The Committee, in its executive session, resolved to re-locate the Shopping Center sign at the corner of Snowden and Nassau so that Shopping Center-bound traffic no longer will be encouraged to use the Snowden route. And the Township police department will make a concerted effort to control excessive speeding along the road.

Members of the Committee pointed out that it is their sincere belief they are endorsing a project which, when finished, will be beneficial to the residents of Snowden as well as contributory to the orderly growth of the entire community.

At the public hearing on Snowden, some 50-plus citizens—the largest and most vocal group to turn out this year—were not so convinced of the "community interest" behind the widening. A majority of Snowden's residents probably 90 percent of them, submitted a petition objecting to the summer project.

Edwin C. Hutter, 360 Herrontown Road, echoing the sentiments of many of his Snowden neighbors, said he is opposed to the widening on the grounds that it will "hurt the roots of the street's trees, make it an arterial road, take away walking space and possibly create traffic jams where none exist today." Another area resident claimed the widening will "decrease property values, disturb the peace and endanger the safety of our children."

"Is this a case of divide and conquer?" asked Ralph J. Sharp, 59 Snowden. The Committee answered a strong, "No." When Nathaniel Burt, 260 Snowden, challenged the "rather peculiar, piecemeal fashion" with which the municipality is developing Snowden, Committeeman Stanley C. Smoyer pointed out that "money is appropriated at different times, so there must be different projects." Then, the Committee went ahead and okayed the latest one.

"Y" SEND-OFF

"Finish - the - Job Campaign." Some 400 persons are expected to attend this Thursday's YMCA-YWCA dinner meeting at 7 at Princeton High School. The dinner will launch the "Let's-Finish-the-Job Campaign" which the "Y" hopes will raise the $375,000 necessary to complete the new building.

We'll get it back come early fall.

—SLEEPY HEAD

Sleepy Head apparently plans to spend the next five months dreaming of that late September night when he can crawl into bed and relish the thought of that "extra hour." Meantime, if he isn't too drowsy when he retires this Saturday, he'll turn his collection of time-pieces one hour ahead to make sure he's in step next morning.

Weather-wise, it appears to be another very pleasant weekend, but it should take a Friday rain to assure clear skies. Temperatures to continue well above normal, the Man declared, as he continued to make amends for past indignities.

A panel on "The Challenge for American Youth" will be the feature of the evening. Dr. Harold W. Dodds will moderate and the panel members will be Dr. John Turkevich, who will speak on Russian education; Mrs. Lowell Thomas, Jr., who will speak on "Observations Around the World;" and Dr. Peter Putnam who will make "Observations at Home." Ledlie I. Laughlin, campaign chairmen, will preside.

Kenneth Hawthorne is chairman of the Teams Organization and Mrs. W. M. Beaney is associate chairman. The organization is composed of three sections, each with five divisions of five teams. When it is complete, 470 persons will be involved.

Section leaders are Mrs. J. L. McLarty, Elric Endersby and Peter Putnam. Division leaders are Mrs. Heath Licklider, Miss Marie Klein, Mrs. Oscar Sussman, Mrs. Thomas R. News Of The THEATRES

PRINCETON SAVOYARDS

Perform Here This Weekend. The Savoyards of Princeton, after staging their production of Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Gondoliers" before an enthusiastic audience in Flemington last Saturday, will move to McCarter Theatre for performances at 8:30 p.m. this Friday and 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. this Saturday. Advance ticket sales have been brisk, so large turnouts are anticipated for all three shows.

Tickets for each performance of the production will remain on sale throughout the week at the Princeton Universtiy Store, and also will be available at McCarter's box office prior to each show. They are priced at $3.25, $2.75 and $2.25 for evenings and $2.85, $2.35 and $2.00 for the Saturday matinee.

Heading the big cast required by the popular operetta, called by many the best in the entire G & S repertoire, are Lee Bristol Jr., Virginia Hoddinger, William Lockwood Jr., Rochelle Erb, Joanna Zaparnyniuk, Frank Towne, Ben Truluck and Carol deVries. Supporting these principals, who have enjoyed considerable previous G&S experience, will be the traditionally sizeable G&S mixed chorus of Gondolieri and Contadine.

The lavish costumes for "The Gondoliers," obtained from a professional costumer, blend with the bright settings to make the stage a reportedly colorful and exciting place from start to finish. Designed by Peter deLuca, University architecture student, the original sets are said to provide a thrilling combination of Venetian palaces and canals, complete with moving gondolas.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS

Cast Set for "Belle." The Princeton Community Players, preparing for their official 25th anniversary production, "Belle, the Typewriter Girl," this week completed casting the seasoned melodrama. To be directed by Herbert McAneny, one of the organization's finest actors of the past, the final offering of the Players' significant birthday year will include performers varying in experience from greenest newcomer to most distinguished veteran.

Kate Chaplin, who has lived in Princeton only three months and whose name has been around the theatre a lot longer than she has (she has never acted outside of high school and college shows), will handle the title role. The villainous Simon will be played by Irving Van Zandt and his intended victim, Belle's mother, will be portrayed by his wife, Helen Van Zandt.

The Van Zandts have been PCP members for 20 years, or almost all of the group's tenure to date. Van has contributed a number of leading parts, especially during the period since World War II, and he was seen most recently as Maitland in last month's "Mary of Scotland." He also played Jupiter in "Amphitryon 38" and the district attorney in "The Night of January 16th," and, while he was president of the Players, the organization offered the world premiere of John O'Hara's "The Searching Sun."

Helen Van Zandt has acted in many PCP plays, though she is perhaps better known for her distinguished set designs, including the wonderful effects for "Mary of Scotland." Trained at the Vassar Experimental Theatre by Hallie Flanagan, she also designed such memorable sets as those for "Amphitryon 38," "Skin of Our Teeth," "Nights of Wrath" and John Becker's "Hasten the Day." The only other time she performed opposite her husband, she played his mother in "The Devil's Disciple."

Also featured in the cast for "Belle" will be James Hopkins, a veteran of numerous Players' productions, and Julian Wick and Roger Irle, a pair of recent recruits from Princeton Theological Seminary. Hopkins appeared briefly as Chatelerhaut in "Mary." Irle, a graduate of Harvard's Hasty Pudding, was first seen as a member of PCP in "Mary," portraying the queen's heartless half-brother, the earl of Moray.

No other talent will be required for the play itself, though between-acts performances—dancing, singing, etc.—will be very much in order for this anniversary presentation. "Belle" and all the extras will be served up May 15, 16, 17, 22, 23 and 24 at the Playmill on Alexander Street.

Renovation for McCarter?

McCarter Theatre definitely will not present "The Happiest Millionaire" this spring, as previously anticipated, and, as a matter of fact, there will be no other major productions heading to or from Broadway over McCarter's boards this season. Such was the official report of a theatre spokesman this week, and it immediately gave rise to speculation that those behind McCarter's operation are thinking seriously of long-needed, long-discussed physical changes.

It has been realized for some time now that big shows are shying away from the Princeton theatre, anxious to go elsewhere because of the physical deficiencies here. For one thing, there must be air-conditioning if McCarter is to extend its season to a better money-making length. The basement should be soundproofed so it can be utilized while the auditorium also is being used. Acoustical conditions must be improved, etc., etc.

While Princeton University officials, who control McCarter's destiny, have announced no renovation plans, it is known that Richard Pleasant, one of the theatre's managing directors as well as a University graduate, believes outside funds can be raised for the work. Pleasant is convinced air-conditioning plans and the promise of summer business would attract "Nassau Street donors" and he is said to feel that alumni interested in the theatre, foundations (like those sponsoring Yale Drama) and benefit-promoting theatrical people would be only too willing to contribute money and/or time to the cause.

will be staged Thursday and Friday, May 1 and 2, at McCarter Theatre by the Periwig Club of Lawrenceville. The productions will make the dramatic organization's 100th anniversary.

From the opening number, "Count Down," treating the current satellite problem, the show will proceed through 18 different scenes. These will include comedy numbers, new songs and a half-dozen of the most popular numbers from past revues.

John D. Humason, Case Morgan and John Howard of the Lawrenceville faculty are co-directors. Among the principal dancers in one of the feature numbers is Samuel Busselle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Busselle of Princeton.

Tickets for the performances, priced at $1.50, $2 and $2.50 for Thursday night and $2, $2.50 and $3 for Friday, are on sale at the University Store. The curtain is at 8 p.m.

CHILDREN'S SERIES

"Playful Dragon" Coming. A 36-foot dragon will appear on McCarter Theatre's stage May 8 at 3:30 as part of the final offering of the Princeton Borough Parent-Teacher Association's series. The Children's Entertainment Committee has sponsored four such programs already.

Mara's Dancers, who will present "Land of the Playful Dragon," are an internationally famous group. They will enact the Cambodian dance-play with goldleaf masks and head-dresses reproduced from the originals. Legends and customs well known to all Indochinese children are woven into the play which tells the story of a little girl's adventures as a dancer in the royal court.

Tickets, priced at $1.50, 95 cents and 50 cents, are available by writing Children's Entertainment, 10 Princeton Avenue, or calling WA 4-5772 between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. on weekdays. The remaining seats will be sold after 1 p.m. the day of the performance at the box office.

A MOST UNUSUAL SCENE: The presence of Mary La Roche with Burt Lancaster in this scene from "Run Silent, Run Deep" makes it a most unusual one, since she's the only female in the next Playhouse offering (starting Sunday)—and she relinquishes a majority of on-screen time to Lancaster and his co-star, Clark Gable.

MURRAY THEATER

Original Play to be Presented. A Freudian fable with music is the description of "Mother Loves Me," which will be on the boards of Murray Theater Friday and Saturday nights, May 2 and 3, at midnight. It is an original one-act musical play with book, music and lyrics by Clark Gesner, who is also the producer. A polite satire on the psychological method of looking at love and life, "Mother" is under the direction of Grenville Cuyler '60, a member of Theatre Intime.

Peter Cook, Janet Thorsen, Clinton Jakeman, Robert Tellander and Marcy Carroll head the cast and the technical director is Samuel Hamill. It is under the sponsorship of the Producer's Fund. Murray's three stage areas will be utilized to represent the contrasting environments in the story and a violin-piano-drums trio will accompany the musical numbers.

Reserved tickets at $1 are on sale at the University Store. They will also be available at the door on the nights of the performances.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Run Silent, Run Deep (Apr. 24-26), based on Commander Edward L. Beach's dramatic and suspenseful novel of men-at-war under the sea, gives the screen a taut, exciting motion picture with two top-ranking co-stars—Clark Gable and Burt Lancaster—at their he-manly best. An almost woman-less film, this saga of the American submarine Nerka's wartime patrol of the broad Pacific Ocean features some of the most effectively nail-biting scenes of undersea warfare ever recorded and some excellent characterizations to boot. Gable is the sub's tough commander, anxious to avenge the sinking of a previous vessel in the dreaded Bongo Straits. Lancaster, chief officer of the same ship, is disappointed because he isn't the skipper—and the crew lines up on his side in an ensuing clash of memorable personalities. In the end, the Japs are hit hard by the Nerka, the two stars are friends and Gable is a dead hero, but not before a series of events that promises to appeal to a great number of moviegoers, permitting none to fall asleep.

The Long, Hot Summer (Apr. 27-May 3) is a fairly long (115 minutes), fairly "hot" (sex as well as barn-burning) movie about a small Mississippi town, which is the scene of much excitement this particular summer. Paul ("Somebody Up There Likes Me") Newman, cast as a hard young man with a tragic childhood behind him, arrives on foot—without funds — and sets out to contest land-baron Orson Welles' power in the community. Naturally, in the course of the challenge, his intimate involvements include Joanne ("Three Faces of Eve") Woodward, unwed (at 23!) daughter of the shady Welles; Anthony ("A Hatful of Rain") Franciosa, Welles' weakling son, and Lee ("A Face in the Crowd") Remick, lucious wife of Franciosa who is much-admired by many men due to her lusciousness and her husband's weaknesses. Well-acted by all principals, notably veteran Welles, and deftly produced by

MUSIC MAN

70 Trombones? There is an electronic organ at the new Barlow's Music Store on Chambers Street and it will make just about any sound you ever heard except the clink of glasses. It costs $1760. It has built-in chimes and three times as many pre-sets as you might expect to find. (This means you don't have to hunt around for combinations on your own time.)

The organ is a Lowrey and it has a younger brother that costs $995 and has percussion. This is most unusual for a small organ, take it from us.

These are true electronic organs which you plug in and play (Minit-Musik will teach you how in an hour). No tuning is necessary and no servicing except the insertion of a new tube now and again. Just like television.

If you want to learn to play, Barlow's will teach you how for $5 a weekly lesson. Use the store's practice room. If you decide to buy an organ after you learn to play, the cost of your lessons will be credited toward the cost of the organ.

Barlow's also sells hi-fi equipment. They have pianos, including Steinways, which they have sold for 40 years. The new store has a fine collection of records that includes, at present writing, Menotti's "Unicorn, Gorgon and the Manticore," which you'll want after having seen the recent high school production; "Tour de Force" with the trumpets of Roy Eldridge, Dizzy Gillespie and Harry Edison; the sound track from the movie, "South Pacific," and a special on Beethoven. The bargain Beethoven consists of Sir Adrian Boults' recordings of the Third, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh symphonies for $2.98 instead of $4.98.

Iron Takes A Prize. Some new Danish iron at Princeton Gourmet took a gold medal at the recent Triennale design show in Italy and moved the Italian judges to a rhapsody that described the pieces as being "serviceable and attractive virtually to a point of perfection."

This is enameled iron cooking ware: a casserole, a top that doubles as a frying pan and a trivet. It's black and Chinese red, black and royal blue, black and olive green and just as heavy as a big iron casserole could possibly be.

Last Year's Mink

Everybody has problems. If your particular problem is what to do with last year's fur coat, the University Cleaners and Laundry will step forward, hat in hand, to offer assistance.

This Thursday and Friday, Mitchell Alexander the furrier-designer will present himself at the Princeton Shopping Center branch of the Cleaners in order to advise you on restyling your old fur into a cape, jacket, stole or coat.

He will help you to select the most becoming style from his advance-season fur styles in canvas. His suggestions and estimates will be made without any obligation on your part, and his fittings will be done in canvas before any work is done on your fur.

Make an appointment by calling WA 4-3123, or stopping at any of the three University Cleaners stores: 78 Nassau, 30 Moore and the Shopping Center.

You could simmer in it—that is, you could simmer something in it—for hours without a thought of burning. The casserole would keep its contents hot just about until the end of time. The handles are rounded "T"s to make all the weight easy to handle.

Slimmer cooks with less muscle may prefer some iron core stainless steel pans that are easy to keep clean and good for simmering.

New serving pieces in stainless steel include a glass jam or mustard pot with steel top and handle, and two shallow serving dishes that could be used for broilers.

Sweden sends along some spisa rib dishes. These are off-white with a narrow, close brown stripe.

The oven-proof casseroles are brimmed, just like a hat, with a cover that turns out to be the dinner plate. The smaller casserole has the salad plate for a cover. There are platters for baking and roasting, and a place setting that includes a good big Swedish coffee cup. The dishes are very informal, but much more durable than the usual earthenware.

For decoration, the shop at Nassau and Harrison offers some new crushed stone figures. You remember the ones: rounded, simple little stone animals with just a suggestion of form. The new ones are a porcupine, a bear, a baby penguin that is most appealing, and a bird coming out of its shell.

If you prefer flora to fauna, you may have some smooth natural wooden fruit. The grapes have pewter stems and the pineapple has narrow leather leaves. Different woods have been used for different fruits so that a bowl presents a harmony of light and dark wood tones.

It's New To Us

Bent glass that looks like bubbly antique glass has been formed into occasional pieces. There are triangular plates that can be arranged together to form a long trapezoid, a huge square plate, a set of ashtrays. Each is a different color: amber, green, violet.

Wad it Up. Even the most inexperienced packer will have no trouble with Mary Gill's new accordion pleated nylon tricot called "Tricotte." Wad it, crumple it, squeeze it into a suitcase—it pops back the minute you hang it up.

There's a sleeveless model with gathered waist; sleeveless with boat-neck top, sun top with bodice pleats that run around the horizon, and another sun model with shoe-string straps. Colors are bright melon, bright aqua, navy, or in the last dress we mentioned, white with pink carnations.

The shop at 230 Nassau also has a large collection of separates by Koret in all-over cotton print, drip dry. There's a blouse, V-neck front and back, deeply shirred at the back, a shirt, shorts circle skirt and dress with sleeveless V-top and unpressed pleats for a skirt.

Popcorn cotton knit in royal, black or white makes an ensemble of separates: shorts, shirt, cardigan, skirt. The dress is slim with gathered waist, high curving boat neck, no sleeves. The knit shorts, in case you have justifiable apprehensions, are cut adroitly and without slink.

Still another collection of separates! This one has a slim or a flared skirt, a floral lined "jet" coat (hip length, kind cuffs, wide collar at top of button row), sleeveless blouse with soft tie, pedal pushers, and a corselette that's like a sturdy, long-line bra. It is strapless with a zipped back that's all elastic. Colors in this melange are white, beige, bright melon and brilliant royal blue.

For playing dress-up, choose any of the soft printed chiffons, the printed silks, the embroidered sheaths on the Mary Gill rack. Backs run deep, front necklines high, the waist rides at the middle.

So much cannot be said for a group of chemise dresses on another rack. Pale sage green silk is plain in front, with a square bow at the back of its lowered "waistline". Copen blue linen is straight as a line, piped with matching satin. The shirt dress is the same as always, but without a belt. You can have this in peach chino.

A cotton print compromises with a blouson waist. The collar is wide, the full banded sleeves are three-quarter.

HELP IS AT HAND: This year-old boy, son of a former Kingston resident, is a cancer victim and a warm-hearted response for contributions to help meet his mounting medical bills has already been reported. "Baby Gene," son of Mr. and Mrs. William Darnell of Hamilton Township, is receiving medical care made possible by gifts sent to the "Baby Gene Fund," c/o Postmaster, Kingston, N. J., with more than $500 received to date. His mother is the former Joan Bubeck of Kingston.

Shopping List. Those 160-ounce sniffers we wrote about two weeks ago (and they hold five quarts, not five gallons, of course) are now beginning to appear. You may look at one at Wine and Caine, Claridge, Cousins and Yeoman's and then order them specially from Old Forester.

The bolas that gauchos use here been imported from the pampas to the campus and they will, in modified form, become the Frisbees of 1959, according to Princeton Stationers which happens to have them in stock. Bolas are balls on the end of cords which are knotted together at the other end. You fling them around, sort of, and if you're a gaucho, you lasso cattle with them.

Wednesday night at the Annex now means Chicken Cacciatore—baked with mushrooms, olives, anchovies, tomatoes, garlic and spices. It's the Annex' own recipe and you may have it for $2.25 between 6 and 10 p.m. every Wednesday.

Jerry Wald, "Summer," based on a number of works by William Faulkner, is interesting, lively and surprisingly stimulating. As the town's Wald-in emotions are being bared, many moviegoers may think they are viewing a continuation of "Peyton Place"—but who's complaining?

THE GARDEN

The Devil's General Apr. 24-26), in German with English subtitles, deals sensitively and tellingly with the realistic story of a high-principled German World War I ace who, as a World War II Luftwaffe general, refuses to compromise with Nazism and, as a result, pays for this refusal with his life. The film's basic moral, that a man who goes along for the ride with a gang of criminals shares their guilt, is set forth movingly and, though the victim's distaste for his fellow-Germans' fanatical Hitler cult is limned sympathetically, the audience is sure to feel that his guilt, while one of omission rather than commission, is real and definite. Curt Jurgens, an actor of consummate skill and authority, does beautifully by the title role and it is obvious why he won first prize as "Best Actor of the Year" for this portrayal at the 1955 Venice Film Festival. The star is aided by an able German cast, paced by the charming Marianne Cook.

Henry V (Apr. 28-30), first released in 1946, returns to the Garden for the wide-screen treatment it so richly deserves. Starring Sir Laurence Olivir in one of his most memorable roles, the lengthy (2 hours, 14 mins.) import remains one of the great motion pictures of all time—a "must" for those who missed it the first time around and good repeat fare for those who have already seen it. "Henry V" is a magnificently produced, beautifully photographed, superbly acted Technicolor version of Shakespeare's stirring and lyrically eloquent historical drama of Egland's 15th Century warrior king. Along with Britain's foremost actor-director, it features Renee Asherson, Leslie Banks, Harcourt Williams and an altogether excellent British cast. Music is provided by the London Symphony Orchestra.

LEGION HONORS BIRCH

Former Commander Cited. A gold, paid-up life membership has been presented to William Birch in honor of his many services to Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion, over the past 25 years.

It is the third such award to be given. Mr. Birch received the membership during a capacity dinner meeting at Legion headquarters, 55 Mercer Street.

Commander of the Princeton post in 1949, he has served in all offices except finance. He has been named delegate to national, department and county conventions many times and has headed numerous committees.

A blood donor since World War I, Mr. Birch made his last donation in 1958 at the age of 63. He has a rare blood type, 4-0, RH Negative.

The presentation was made to Mr. Birch by Robert Schmidt, post commander, while a leather wallet set from the post's auto club was given by Marino Ferrara. Also on hand for the festivities, arranged by Nathaniel McKee, who doubled as master of ceremonies, were visitors Warren P. Davies, New Jersey department commander; Thomas Rhodes, department judge advocate; Alex Garbarczyk, Mercer County commander; Fred Ryan, department vice-commander, and Henry Ryan, a member of the county executive committee.

Kiwanis Contest

Those who would like to see their favorite community project gain $1000 and indulge their literary talents for $100 are reminded of the Kiwanis contest which continues until midnight, May 15. The question to be answered is "What's the most worthwhile community project for the Princeton Kiwanis Club to aid annually?" Eloquence is limited to 300 words.

Only official entry forms can be used. These are available at Hinkson's, Zinder's, Skirm's Smoke Shop and Center Stationers, as well as the Lawrenceville Jigger Shop.

TOWNSHIP CRACKDOWN

Three Loiterers Guilty. Commencing a crackdown on loiterers in the most heavily populated area of Princeton Township, officers of that municipality's police force arrested three men Monday evening at the intersection of Leigh Avenue and John Street. Sgt. Richard Steiner and Patrolman Michael Lisi, who made the arrests, charged the trio with making nasty remarks to passers-by and creating a general nuisance.

Pleading guilty to the loitering complaint in Township Court, the defendants were assessed $50 apiece by Magistrate Louis R. Gerber. Fined were Willie Armstrong, 26, of 48 Birch Avenue; Robert V. Marshall, 22, of 150 Witherspoon Street, and Oliver Kauffman, 20, of 7 James Street, Lawrenceville. Armstrong also was fined an extra $30 for illegal possession of lottery slips.

WILSON COLLEGE CHOIR

Religious Works Will Be Sung. A program of secular and sacred music will be presented by the Wilson College Choir Saturday at 8:15 in the Lawrenceville School Chapel, under the direction of Albert van Ackere. The concert is sponsored by the Trenton-Princeton Wilson College Club whose president is Mrs. C. O. Alley Jr., Princeton-Lawrenceville Road.

Donations will benefit the college's development fund. Tickets are available through Mrs. Anthony Luccarelli of Princeton.

The choir will sing two works which are seldom heard in this country, Hans Hessler's "Cantate Domino" and a mass for women's voices written by Debussy's pupil, Andret Caplet. Also to be heard are three accompanied Bach chorales, excerpts from several of Mozart's religious works and songs from the 14th century.

TEACHERS TO PLAY

To Supply Music at PTA Supper. A group composed mainly of teachers at Littlebrook School will provide the music for the next combined buffet supper and Township Parent-Teacher Association meeting. The second of the Township PTA's fund-raising suppers will start at 6 p.m. Tuesday at Littlebrook School.

Featured in the instrumental group will be Albert Sonnenfeld, a professional banjo player and the husband of the music teacher at Littlebrook. He also played at the PTA's first fund-raising supper last Tuesday at the Valley Road School.

After the supper, officers for

"OPEN HOUSE" PLANS MADE

Hostesses to Head Tours. Hostesses for the Mount Holyoke-Radcliffe "Open House" tour on Saturday, May 17, have made the final plans for their part of the visits to historic area homes. Mrs. Paul E. Orr, Jr., of Province Line Road is chairman of the hostess committee for the scholarship benefit.

A head hostess will be in charge of each of the 10 homes on the tour to supervise other hostesses, set up parking signs, plan the route of the tour, and to consult with the owner to obtain the history and interesting facts about the home. The hostesses will be on duty for two and one half hours shifts, with the second group removing all signs and checking to be sure the house is in good order.

Ready to "Clean-Up?"

Both Borough and Township trucks will be on the road next week to remove rubbish, tin cans and other debris. The Borough hopes to cover its streets each day whereas the Township has set up a definite schedule for collections. Residents must not include any articles or containers which require more than one man to lift.

In the Township, Monday and Tuesday have been designated for the Battle Park area, Princeton Pike, Quaker Bridge Road, Lovers Lane, Parkside Drive and Greenhouse Lane; Wednesday, for the western and northern portions of the Township bounded by Elm Road, Mountain Avenue, Valley Road, Franklin Avenue and Snowden Lane; Thursday for the southern and eastern sections bounded by Snowden Lane and south to Carnegie Lake; Friday for the area lying west of Bayard Lane, east of Moore Street, north of the Borough line and south of Valley Road (including Birch, Leigh, Henry and Guynt Avenues and Carnahan Place).

According to Borough Engineer, J. Russell Riker, the purpose of "Clean-Up" Week is to remove fire and health hazards. He also noted that "Paint-Up" and "Fix-Up" should be part of the overall campaign for Princeton residents.

SURE SIGN OF WARM WEATHER: As Spring REALLY came to Princetan this week, youngsters all over town demanstrated their firm belief in the permanency of the season. They began roller skating, skipping rope, playing marbles—and doing everything associated with a wanderful time of year. Here, Elizabeth Rose af 98 Jefferson Road exhibits her hopscatch prowess as Helen Carroll (left), 77 Jefferson, and Barbara Kearns, 79 Jefferson, figure haw they must perform when it's their turn in arder to beat the pace-setter. FLAPPERS ON EXHIBIT

Held's Paintings to Be Shown. The works of the late John Held Jr., creator and painter of the flapper girl of the 1920's, will be on display at The Little Gallery on Palmer Square from Sunday through May 7. Larom B. Munson, proprietor of the Gallery, has attempted to get together as many of Mr. Held's drawings as possible for the display.

The collection has recently been increased by a set of old covers from "Life" and "Judge" magazines, featuring the flappers, complete with the rolled stockings which distinguish them from the wilder present-day fashions. For several years, Mr. Held drew seven newspaper strips and about two magazine covers or cartoons a week, but many of these have disappeared, so that Mr. Munson has had difficulty collecting a representative group.

Besides the flappers and flapper-consorts of the 20s, Mr. Held's work includes a number of sporting pictures, book illustrations, posters advertising New England for the New Haven Railroad, and some later sculptures. The exhibition also feature satirical and hilarious woodcuts done in his early and middle years for the New Yorker Magazine.

This year's show is much more complete than the exhibition of his works held at the Little Gallery in December, 1955. Since his death at his farm in Belman March 2, his widow has found a number of old folios of his work in the attic to add to the collection.

Hadassah Plans Two Events. Hadassah will take part in a bake sale next Friday and a joint meeting with B'nai B'rith on Thursday. The bake sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Davidson's Market, while the meeting is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. at the Jewish Center.

Mrs. Manuel Rotenberg is chairman for the bake sale, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Stix. At the meeting, Alfred Elias will speak on the new approach to juvenile delinquents by group therapy as it is being practiced at Highfields.

Mr. Elias, a sociologist, and his family have been living at the home with 20 to 22 boys between 16 and 18 for the past six years. Highfields, which is located near Hopewell, was started eight years ago to test group therapy in a minimum security institution and has since been taken over by the State.

Rummage Sale Next Week. The Ladies Auxiliery of the Princeton Lions Club will hold its third annual rummage sale next Thursday at the Township Garage on Witherspoon Street. Hours will be 9 to 5; contributions may be made there on Wednesday from 9 to 5, with errangements for pickup to be made through Mrs. Erls Mihan (WA 4-0515.)

The Nurses' Scholarship Fund which the auxiliery supports will benefit from the proceeds. Mrs. Leonard Heinrich is general chairman of the sale, assisted by Mrs. James Fraser, Mrs. Ross Alger, Mrs. Edward Toussaint, Mrs. Harold Frazee, Mrs. Nelson Thompson, Mrs. Robert Mangold, Mrs. Richard Pelikan, Mrs. Martin Mains and Mrs. William Kie-

French Markets Begin. The Garden Club of Princeton is again sponsoring its French Markets Saturday mornings from 9 to 12. They will last through June 7.

Proceeds from the sale of flowers and plants are contributed to various community projects. The markets are held on the island at the junction of Nassau and Mer-

For A Better Princeton

Entering the final stage of its month-long fund-raising drive, Princeton Local 130 of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association this week circulated posters that effectively tell the story of the PBA's purpose in soliciting donations. The posters' message: "Your Chance To Shape A Better Princeton For Our Boys and Girls—Contribute To The Police Youth Program Sponsored By The Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, Local 130."

Commenting on the drive to date, Township Patrolman Jack Petrone, publicity chairman, said the PBA is "delighted" with Princeton's responses, which already has resulted in a total of $4,000-plus in gifts. He stressed, however, that at least another $3,000 is urgently needed to enable the organization to continue its present youth services and promote new ones.

Included in the Police Youth Program now are the Junior Rifle Club, school patrols and midget baseball sponsorship. Projected activities include police instruction in boxing, photography, tennis and archery and police sponsorship of community-wide social functions.

Report from THE MAYOR

A Proclamation. The Mayor has proclaimed the week of April 28 to May 2 as "Clean-up Week" in the Borough. Every department in the Borough government is cooperating in the effort which can prevent fires, improve the health and appearance of the community, and repair the damage to homes and grounds from one of the most severe winters on record.

Special targets during clean-up week are yards, vacant lots, cellers and attics. Trucks will be provided to cart away any rubbish placed at the curb in a container that one man can lift. No regular schedule of collection will be maintained, but a continuous pick-up throughout the week will remove the material as speedily as possible.

The Mayors Meet. Keeping intact a record of week by week meetings on matters of mutual concern, the Mayors of Borough and Township will be together again this week on the subject of recreation. Along with Councilman Richard Colman and Committeeman Stanley Smoyer, they will reach agreement on the appointment of a joint committee to study recreation needs in accordance with a formal request from the Council of Community Services.

Operation Nassau. The Mayors and our Borough Engineer were among those who received impressive awards for "public-spirited collaboration with the Operation Nassau Committee in its endeavor to maintain the traditional character of Princeton". (See picture, page 22.)

The Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce has taken on this project as one of its major community efforts. It will continue to have the able and dedicated support of the committee that launched Operation Nassau a dozen years ago.

An Important Extension. After many more meetings and letters and calls, it appeared almost certain this week that Washington would approve a short but critical extension in time for the completion of Princeton's Final Project Report on Urban Renewal. There has been a marked improvement in communications among all the interested agencies.

Meanwhile, the Mayor has kept in constant touch with church, civic and commercial groups and with residents of the affected area. No final decisions have been reached, but the climate for effective decision-making is being developed.

Friday Night. Again this week on Friday from 7 to 10 p.m., the Mayor will hold "Open House" at Borough Hall. Last week, a second session was needed on Saturday to finish up.

Among the important items of community-wide concern was the list of questions on parking, traffic, and pedestrian safety presented by Mrs. Stella Hemphill on behalf of the League of Women Voters. The League was urged to suggest a candidate for the Mayor's Committee on Parking and Traffic. This committee will be reconstituted shortly, with many agenda items awaiting them.

Jewish Center to Hold Brunch. The Kendall Park Jewish Community Center will offer a membership brunch at 10:30 on Sunday. It will take place at the volunteer firehouse in Franklin Park and is open to the whole family.

Children will be accommodated in a nursery. There will be volunteers to supervise.

Riders Win Ribbons. Five members of the Princeton Riding Club entered the Lambertville Horse Show and won ribbons in several categories. The classes were horsemanship, jumping and pairs ridden side-saddle in formal dress.

The winners include: Miss Alice Van Eerden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert van Eerden; Miss Jean Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ford of Hightstown; Miss Linda Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dudley Clark; Miss Constance Donal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Donal Jr., and Miss Judith Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Maxwell.

Lane Aids Cancer Drive. The fund-raising drive for the Middlesex County Chapter of the American Cancer Society is being aided by Anthony Lane of Applegarth. He is in charge of the undertaking in Monroe Township.

Mr. Lane, proprietor of the Applegarth Inn, has set as his goal fulfillment of the municipality's quota, an accomplishment not previously attained. Maurice W. Rowland is chairman of the cancer drive in Middlesex.

AYES OF PRINCETON ARE UPON IT: While some Township residents may be eyeing the municipality's two proposed new elementary schools with a bit of skepticism, the majority appears ready to endorse the proposal with "ayes." Two of the latter group are Mrs. David Crawford (left) and Mrs. Robert E. Navin, shown looking at one of the proposed school sites, near their homes in the Riverside section. Mrs. Navin's sons, Ricky, 3, and Tommy 5, seem interested in their educational futures, but it's a far-off matter for unconcerned Carolyn Crawford, not yet 1. (Photo by Alan Richards)

Question of the Week

Question: How do you plan to vote on the proposal for two new Township schools, and why?

Location: Princeton Township.

Mrs. Edward B. Meservey, 72 Dorann Avenue, instructor of history, Douglass College, Rutgers, and Princeton housewife: The Board of Education has done an admirable job of ascertaining and analyzing the future educational needs of Princeton's children. It makes good sense to build new schools wherever and whenever the population pressure warrants it, and I shall therefore vote for the two proposed new schools at Riverside and on the Johnson tract. Because of the present zoning regulations, however, Princeton neighborhoods tend to be homogeneous socially, economically and racially. Every effort will therefore have to be made to insure that local schools represent a real cross section of the population.

Mrs. Robert E. Navin, 267 Riverside Drive, housewife and mother of three young boys: I'm all in favor of both proposed schools. I much prefer my children walking even three or four blocks to school than bussing it. If a plan can be effected to handle twice as many children at one time, through such "neighborhood type" schools in two different sections, it's all the better—and much more equitable. It will cut down the number of school buses to and from many areas of the Township.

John A. Valentine, 45 Cuyler Road, professional associate at Educational Testing Service: The situation is completely obvious to me. I am all for two new buildings now while the property is available. I think those concerned in the decision have made careful studies of the whole program and I have confidence in their work. With the increasing school-age population in the areas concerned, I believe the only way to vote is in favor of the buildings.

Mrs. James K. Delano, 729 Prospect Avenue, Extension, housewife: I'm planning to vote in favor of the bond for the two new schools. I feel the school board is being very wise planning now both for the growing population of Princeton Township and for the "neighborhood type" of school, and that the board is doing its best to solve our school problems soundly and economically. I'm glad that the bond has been worked out by experts. With increasing traffic problems, I feel the neighborhood school system will be most advantageous for the community as well as for the children, and these new schools can also provide needed playground facilities.

Mrs. Norman Denard, 118 Winant Road, Democratic County Committeewoman: At this point, I am not at all sure which way I will vote. There are two things that bother me particularly. One is that the Johnson tract was given to the Township with the understanding it would be used as a recreational area. Such space is extremely short in the Township, especially in view of the rising population. The other is the "path" at the end of Edgerstoune Road. Unless this is made safe for children and adequately policed after school for those participating in extra-curricular activities, as well as at the normal times, I think the economy of building a school in that section will be largely nullified, since the children would have to be transported via Elm Road to school.

Norbert A. Considine, 121 Red Hill Road, advertising executive: I am going to vote in favor of the new schools, but I would much rather see the money go towards improving the salaries and the educational level of our teachers. All over the country, money earmarked for education is being spent on fancy physical plants, whereas it would be much better to up-grade the living conditions of teachers. This is the only way we can attract more highly qualified teachers to our schools.

Mrs. David Crawford, 231 River side Drive, mother of four: The establishment of two new schools on opposite sides of the Township will save a lot on transportation. I have four children. After fourth grade, they will have to walk or ride bikes to Littlebrook. If we don't get a new school here. Naturally, then, I would much prefer to have it here. I should think the whole Township would be in favor of it, in fact. The fewer buses, the better!

EACH TAKES CARE OF BOTH: "Trainable" children from both Borough and Township belong to a special class held at the Borough's Quarry Street School. Mrs. Esther H. Roberts teaches "trainable" children who are capable of assimilating only the simplest instructions. At the Township's Valley Road School, "educable" children from both Borough and Township attend classes that will teach them enough to earn a living. Borough psychologist Jack Bardon and Township psychologist Frank Harenian work in close cooperation to help these unfortunate children and other children in Borough and Township who need guidance. SCHOOLS COOPERATE

"Why Has it Taken Us So Long?" The question came recently from a member of the Township School Board in reference to the growing and increasingly fruitful cooperation between Princeton's two school systems.

The two Boards began working together in the fall of 1956 when they held their first joint meeting in eight years. Since that time, they have met at occasional dinner gatherings and in smaller groups, exchanging information and working out solutions to the mutual needs that Borough and Township schools have as parts of the same community.

Uniform teacher salary scales were the most important result of that first 1956 meeting. Out-of-town teachers, applying for jobs, were unaware that "Princeton" meant two different school systems and both Boards felt that a single salary scale was essential. The scale was incorporated into the 1957-58 budgets of both school systems.

Two Streams Meet. These discussions led naturally into further conferences on matters of common interest: teacher recruiting, housing for new teachers and, most important, curriculum.

Both Borough and Township students meet in confluence at Princeton High. Johnny, from Quarry Street, has had French. Johnny from Valley Road has had French, too; but the two Johnnies arrive in the same high school French class with widely different backgrounds in the language, and the high school teacher loses valuable time getting them together.

In math, the situation has been even more acute because of special math classes at Valley Road that differ from their Quarry Street counterparts. It was obvious to the two school boards that identical curricula were necessary, not only in French and math, but in science and English also.

Last spring, teaching staffs of the high school and the two elementary schools and the two assistant superintendents, Chester Stroup of the Borough and William Purcell of the Township, met and decided that the math curriculum in both school systems should be re-examined. At a joint Township-Borough dinner last fall, the decision was approved.

The work is now almost finished. At the end of this month, the new first-through-twelfth grade math curriculum will be turned over to teacher committees who will work out details—when to teach long division, etc.,—and then both Township and Borough children will have the same math courses.

Meanwhile, of course, both Borough and Township teachers have been attending the in-service training program in math that is being given by Princeton University and Educational Testing Service, a program designed to work out a whole new approach to the teaching of mathematics.

Next on the curriculum revision list: science and English.

Space Age. In both Borough and Township, the bursting question of the moment is "Where do we put them all?"

The Township, with its 1200 children that will be 2500 in 1967, must have new buildings or face the possibility of teaching its children in somebody's back yard. The Borough has a school population that has remained at a stable four sections in all grades for the last five years, but it has an antiquated plant (one school official refers to Nassau Street School as "the ark") and limited playground space at both Nassau and Quarry Streets that doesn't allow for much more than hopscotch.

The Borough has only one place to go: the Marquand tract which can be used for school purposes five years from the time it was turned over to the Borough. That's over two years from now.

The two Boards have kept each other closely informed on these mutual problems. They have exchanged information on population trends. The Township conferred with the Borough before acquiring school sites. The Borough has begun negotiations with the Township, hoping for a plan which will give Borough schools playground areas on Township land.

And of course, concurrently, the two administrative systems have been working together. A child moves from Borough to Township. He has reading problems. What are they? What is his reading level? The two concerned principals, one Borough, one Township, will get the two teachers together so they can exchange in-

The Past — and the Future?

What's the answer, then, to "Why haven't we done this before?" One answer is that, before 1954, there was a considerable gap in Township and Borough educational philosophies. The Borough was thought to be "progressive," the Township "conservative." Now, that gap is almost closed and the two systems are close together in fundamentals.

The Borough has long had the stability of two veteran administrators, B. Woodhull Davis, its superintendent, and Mr. Stroup. The Township took a firm step toward this stability last week when it signed contracts giving tenure to Mr. Purcell and to John McKenna, Valley Road principal.

Another answer may go back to 1948 when both Boards examined and rejected the possibility of school consolidation. Some observers feel that this rejection tended to make the two school systems drift away from cooperation.

Today, with the two Boards helping each other so much, the question of consolidation has naturally risen once again, but neither Board is making any long-range consolidation studies.

The fact that they had discussed consolidation at all was first mentioned publicly last February 18 at a Borough P.T.A. meeting. The following week, at a Township P.T.A. meeting, Board members had a frank discussion with Township parents about the valuable cooperation between the two systems.

Graham Rohrer, speaking for the Borough Board, says the two groups are only at a point where it's possible they may begin to think about studying the situation. He thinks the present informal pattern will continue for a long time.

Of course, actual school consolidation could only be decided by referendum. A tremendous amount of research, study, thought and planning would be necessary before the two Boards could even recommend to the voters a consolidation plan.

"The initiative," says Mr. Rohrer," will have to come from a community spirit within the people of Princeton."

GUIDANCE CENTER TO MOVE

Fund Drive Successful. With its permanence secured on two financial fronts, the Princeton branch of the Child Guidance Center of Mercer County will move into new quarters at 199 Nassau Street late this month. The agency has topped the $5000 mark in its fund-raising drive and has been accepted as the newest member of the United Community Fund.

The $5000 goal was set last winter as the minimum necessary to stabilize services and to become a member of the UCF. By Easter, 162 persons, in gifts ranging from 50 cents to $300, had contributed a total of $5621 for the center.

Since it was set up in September 1956, the Child Guidance Center here has been working on a part-time provisional basis from the office of the Borough school psychologist at the Nassau Street School. No longer reliant on the Trenton Child Guidance Center for funds, the Princeton branch will be able to serve twice as many children with its program under the direction of Dr. Charles Swift, the center's psychiatrist.

The center still needs a children's table and chairs, a screen and bookcase, a desk lamp and standing lamps and a typewriter for its new officers on the second floor of 199 Nassau Street. The new quarters will be painted, and the group has already received gifts of a couch, a rug, an overstuffed chair and the promise of a desk.

AUCTION HUNT TO BEGIN

Hospital Fete Needs Antiques. Solicitation is beginning for items for the Collectors Auction at the Princeton Hospital Fete, scheduled for June 7 on the Baker Rink grounds. Solicitors will telephone Princeton area residents in their hunt for antiques for the auction.

Mrs. James Sayen and Mrs. L. W. Hicks, co-chairmen for solicitation for the auction, noted that their committee is looking for antiques of all kinds, including china, glass, pewter, silver, copper, brass, furniture, rugs and linens. Final plans for the antique hunt were laid at three meetings at Mrs. Sayen's home on the Great Road last week.

Last year's auction brought several New York dealers to look at a pair of rare clocks, and another clock intrigued 14-year old Karl Johnson so much that he bid against himself. When no one else entered the bidding, the auctioneer sold the clock to him for his original bid.

Other rare items at last June's auction were an antique chair and several valuable paintings. Two used cars were also auctioned off last year, although not exactly listed as antiques.

Those who are missed by the phone solicitors may call Mrs. Raymond Woodrow, Rosedale Road, who will arrange for collecting contributions. Co-chairmen of the auction, Mrs. Charles Mapes and Mrs. James P. Stewart, have named Mrs. Pepper Constable Jr. and Mrs. Sanders Maxwell to head the pick-up committee and Mrs. Hugh D. Wise and Mrs. George Cresson as co-chairman of packing.

Mrs. Philip L. Duschnes is in charge of out-of-town solicitations. The areas which will be reached in the drive for antiques include Cranbury, Belle Mead, Dutch Neck Princeton Junction, Griggstown, Hightstown, Kingston, Lawrenceville, Skillman, Blawenburg, Pennington and Rocky Hill.

HIGH SCHOOL PTA ELECTS

Also Names Honorary Officers. Mrs. Normnn Frederiksen will serve as president of the Princeton High School Parent-Teacher Association for the next 12 months Mrs. William Dix was named honorary president at the annual election meeting, with Harold Hazard made honorary vice-president.

Assisting Mrs. Frederiksen will be Mrs. Frederick Harbison, first vice-president; Mrs. John Fenn, second vice-president; Mrs. George Parker, recording secretary; Mrs. Frederick Burrell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank Brink, treasurer, and Mrs. Charle Widman, assistant treasurer.

As in previous years, the PTA is sponsoring a party after the senior farewell dance, scheduled for May 23. The organization will hold a breakfast dance at the Nassau Tavern, with Princeton Business Association furnishing the door prizes and chaperoning by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Philip Mimis is chairman of the committee planning the breakfast. Others on the committee are Mrs. Leroy Page, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Wells, finance Mrs. G. A. Speedy, entertainment Mrs. Joel Johnson, sandwiches; Mrs. Erick Mihan, soft drinks; Seymour Goudheart, father chaperones; and Mrs. R. C. Brickley, decorations. Serving on the student committee are Robert Hoyler, chnirman, Nancy Sasso and Joan Weinhrecht.

School Committee Gains Five. Five new members have been elected in the Citizens' Advisory Committee on New School Buildings in the Township. The committee, which now numbers 17 members under the chairmanship of Mrs. Donald Rugg, has been meeting with Martin Beck, architect of the proposed schools at the Johnson and Riverside sites, to review and discuss the building plans.

The newly-appointed members of the committee are Mrs. Fernand Baruch, Mrs. John L. Kennedy, Dr. Gerald V. Lannholm, Louis Pensak and Thomas R.

NEW PROFESSORS NAMED

University Promotes Five. Princeton University had advanced five associate professors to the position of full professor. Other promotions elevated nine assistant professors and 10 instructors to new positions.

Named to the rank of professor were Samuel D. Atkins, Department of Classics; Paul J. Strayer, Economics and Sociology Norman W. Mather, Electrical Engineering; and George T. Reynolds and Rubby Sherr, Physics. All of the promotions will be effective July 1.

Dr. Atkins teaches both Hellenistic literature, literary criticism and Greek in the Department of Classics and Sanskrit in the Department of Oriental Studies. An expert in the fields of public finance and fiscal policy, Dr. Strayer served as a senior economist with the War Production Board and assistant to the director of the Industrial Materials Division, Office of Price Administration, during World War II. Both he and Dr. Atkins have been at Princeton since before the war, taking time out to serve in the Navy.

The new professor in the Department of Electrical Engineering, Mr. Mather, has been at the University since 1947, and has been working on Project Matterhorn to harness fusion power since 1952. Dr. Reynolds is in charge of a group studying cosmic rays and elementary particles under a contract with the Office of Naval Research, while the other member of the Department of physics promoted to professor, Dr. Sherr, has worked on the structure of light nuclei and has conducted experiments on the long life of carbon 14.

The nine assistant professors promoted to the rank of associate professor are: Robert A. Koch, Department of Art and Archaeology; Michel Boudart and Leon Lapidus, Chemical Engineering; Steve M. Slaby, Graphics; Bryce Maxwell and David Pines, Mechanical Engineering; Jackson J. Campbell, English; Farhat J. Ziadeh, Oriental Studies and Jack A. Vernon, Psychology.

The eleven instructors advanced to assistant professorships are: Wen Fong, Department of Art and Archaeology; Bruce M. Eberhart, Biology; Paul V. Schleyer, Chemistry; Donald C. F. Leigh, Mechanical Engineering; Laurence B. Holland and Charles Ryskamp, English; George Markow-Totevy, Modern Languages; Carl Levinson, Physics; Byron A. Campbell, Psychology, and Richard T. Fot, Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

BLIND-MADE PRODUCTS

Home Industries to Sell. Princeton residents will have the opportunity in the near future to buy products made by the blind through the Home Industries program of the State Commission for the Blind. The Commission purchases raw materials, delivers them to the workmen, inspects the completed products, and pays the workers each month.

Zolton Korany and Neil Lambert, a young man without sight, are working in this area as salesmen from the New Jersey State Distributors for Blindmade Products in East Oange. They will telephone potential customers before calling in person and are only authorized to sell products made by the blind. Purchasers pay upon delivery of the article and may not make donations to the salesmen.

An increasing number of blind people have become able to produce items for sale over the past years and the Commission is anxious to give these people additional income from their work. For this reason, the program of direct sales has been adopted. In 1957, $202,000 worth of merchendise was made by blind craftsmen in New Jersey.

The New Jersey State Distributors has no connection with any training program or social group. Its sole purpose is to sell gifts and household items made by the blind.

Canteen Council Officers Named. At the April meeting of the Canteen Council members were elected for 1958-59; Dr. V. T. Davis, chairman; Thomas Turner, vice-chairman; Mrs. Lydia Griggs, recording secretary; Mrs. E. A. Hafgefang, corresponding secretary; George Guirisic, treasurer; Frank Bahadurian, student advisor. George Dixon, a member of the Valley Road School faculty, has been named new director.

Student representatives were elected last Saturday at the regular canteen at the Nassau Street School. They are: John Reed, president; John Davis, vice-president; Miss Patricia Gee, secretary; Miss Luemma King, treasurer.

BUSINESS

FAMILIAR FACE

Same Stand for 32 Years. Back in the summer of 1926, when elimination of the Lincoln Highway as a major artery hurt business on Princeton's then-distant and undeveloped east side, Robert S. Frangos, then-manager of the Princeton Goody Shop, took a temporary job making ice cream at Renwick's Restaurant. The downtown eatery's regular purveyor of goodies never returned from his vacation in Italy, so Mr. Frangos stayed on—and he's been there ever since.

Actually, Renwick's was pretty lucky. The man who came as a summer substitute—and thus far has remained 32 years — knew how to concoct the most delicious ice cream in these parts. Having switched from cheese-making to ice cream after arriving in America with $20 to his name in 1911, and finding no cheese plants around, Mr. Frangos became a specialist in his chosen field. Food connoisseurs all over the east came to regard him as an ice cream expert.

The ancient art of making ice cream on the premises died a quick death in the late '30s, when outsiders started producing it at lower costs, but the dean of Renwick's employees refused to pass out of the picture with his beloved craft. He was too fond of the restaurant's owners and managers to quit. And, by the same token, they were too fond of him—and his sandwich and soda ability behind the fountain—to let him go.

Princetonians who had known Mr. Frangos in the early '20s, at a time when he served his fine fare to church outings and other functions—often by horse and buggy—from a shop on Spring Street, regretted the exodus of his homemade delicacies. Yet, they were delighted to see him outlast the new era of modern production methods, and even came to think of him as "a Princeton landmark's landmark."

Mr. Frangos, who married a Trenton girl and moved into their present home, 117 Linden Lane, more than a quarter-century ago, was one of nine youngsters himself and is justifiably proud of the fact that his four children (three daughters, one son) have already given him nine grandchildren. "My family never had many luxuries in Greece, and I've never tried to be rich," the 68-year-old resident explained this week, "but we've always been comfortable and we've had fun raising four wonderful children."

During World War II, Mr. Frangos got a janitor's job in the cafeteria at RCA "because some people wondered about foreigners who weren't giving their all for the war effort." He worked nights at Renwick's, meaning a 16-hour workday, so now he's evening things up by working only two and a half hours a day at his favorite stand. "I love it so much," he confided, "that I'd probably work behind the fountain and take care of the nice people of Princeton, even if they didn't pay me for it."

THE MAN WHO CAME TO RENWICK'S: Remember the play about the gent who came for dinner and stayed six months? Well, Robert S. Frangos is Princeton's counterpart—and then some. He came to Renwick's Restaurant as a summer replacement and, to date, has stayed 32 years. For details, see Business in Princeton.

BUILDING CHANGES HANDS

Gallup Firm Is Seller. With the move of many of its offices to Princeton Research Park set for the summer months, the Chambers Street Corporation—part of the Gallup & Robinson organization—this week sold its facilities at 17 Chambers Street to Princeton Savings & Loan Association. Terms of the transaction, which will be consummated when the association takes title at the end of May, were not disclosed.

Mrs. James L. Dougherty, executive secretary for Princeton Savings & Loan, said the association has no immediate plans for occupancy of the purchased building, though the requirements of steady expansion may necessitate such a move "in a year or two." At present, the association is leasing quarters at 21 Chambers.

NEW OWNERSHIP

Grocer Buys Gale Cleaners. William Toto, associated since World War II with his mother's grocery store, Toto's Market, 74 Witherspoon Street, officially crossed the street this week to take charge of Gale Cleaners, 43 Witherspoon. Mr. Toto purchased the dry cleaning and tailoring establishment for an undisclosed amount from the estate of William Gale, who died last month after running the business for some 30 years.

In taking over a brand-new type of enterprise, Mgr. Toto said he will retain the same staff in the front office and in his shop. The business will continue under the Gale banner, with delivery service as in the past.

"ECONOMY FLIGHT"

Effective This Spring. Urging Princetonians to spend their vacations abroad this spring and summer, the Kuiler Travel Company, 82 Nassau Street, has announced the inauguration of a new "economy flight" on all major airlines. The economy service, which represents a "round trip saving of $113 over the tourist-class rate and allows the full 44 pounds' free baggage allowance together with stop-over privileges," went into effect this month.

The Princeton agency, noting that it does not charge travelers for information or any services involved in obtaining tickets or preparing trip plans, provided the following, sample roundtrip economy fares: Glasgow, $426.60; London, $453.60; Paris, $480.60; Geneva, $522.20, and Rome, $591.50.

LIKE HOT CAKES

K.P. Homes Selling Well. With the opening days of their 1958 sales campaign completed, the builders of Kendall Park South announced this week the sale of more than 45 homes in the newest portion of a vast subdivision. Kendall Park South is located in South Brunswick Township on Route 27 (the Lincoln Highway), seven miles north of Princeton and one mile south of Franklin Park.

The development's new 1958 models, the "Edgebrook" and the "Drake," have been viewed by hundreds of families over the past weekends. According to a spokesman for the builders, The women found that practically all of the items which were recommended by the 'Women's Congress on Housing' were incorporated into the new Kendall Park models."

The "Edgebrook," its promoters indicated, offers 1630 square feet of living space for a price of $16,790. A nine-room brick-front ranch style home, it features a 32-foot living-dining area, two full baths, a family room, a separate breakfast area, three oversized bedrooms, sliding glass walls from the kitchen and living room to the outdoors, and a garage. The sixroom "Drake," with an oversized garage, sells for $14,490.

Bath homes are built on one-third to one-half-acre plots on well-laid out streets, according to the builders. Kendall Park is a self-contained community with modern school buildings and all city utilities, including sewers. Travelling time to Newark is 35 minutes, and to Penn Station, New York City, is 50 minutes. An express bus connects the community with the terminal building in New York.

UPSWING

Tiger Teams Do Better. Paced by a standout victory over Navy credited to Princeton's impressive crew, Orange and Black athletic teams improved markedly last weekend—aided in no small degree by temperatures 30 degrees warmer than those that had hindered their early development. With the exception of a double overtime loss to Navy in lacrosse, all Princeton varsities were victorious in Friday and Saturday action.

Some of them will be seen at home this weekend. Palmer Stadium will be the site of a track meet with Harvard at 2, while at 2:30 Army and Princeton will meet in lacrosse at University Field. There is little chance of a Tiger victory in either case, although ability to carry Navy into two extra sessions before succumbing, 15-12, was much to the lacrosse team's credit.

For those who watch the varsity and freshmen track teams in Palmer Stadium, two Princeton entries are of particular note. Sophomore Pete Harwood ripped off a surprising 21.2 for the 220 on a Columbia track that is none too fast—a clocking that is, for example, four-tenths of a second faster that the Harvard-Princeton record set 26 years ago by Hollis Derby, one-time Princeton resident.

Also worth watching is freshman Dick Edmunds, who broke a university indoor sprint record the first time he ran last winter. He has since been clocked in 10 seconds flat for the 100 on a muddy track, and has potential ability far above average.

Crew Matches Expectations. Trailing for all but the final 400 yards of a mile and three-quarter race, Princeton's varsity crew put on a tremendous stretch drive on the Severn River Saturday. With less than a quarter mile to go, the Navy and Nassau shells were even; at the finish line, the Tigers drove across at a high beat of 38, the middies had tapered off to 32 and were second by a length and a half. The victors were timed in 9.27 under near-perfect conditions.

All four of Princeton's other entries (jayvee and third varsity, first and second freshmen) lost by margins ranging from a few feet to seven lengths, but the varisty's showing sent the Tiger contingent home content with the world. Ability to catch and pass the Navy, which had led while major achievement, and justified much of the optimism that has pervaded the Tiger camp this Spring.

Ahead this weekend is defense of the Childs Cup on Philadelphia's Schuylkill River, with Pennsylvania and Columbia providing the opposition. Most of it is expected to come from the Quakes, with Don Rose, former coach of the all-conquering Princeton lightweights, scheduled to experience his first defeat.

His streak that began here in April, 1956, and rolled through two national and two Henley championships, was extended last week when Columbia gave him a successful debut by beating Rutgers and Fordham. Princeton and Penn are, however, a good deal more than the Lions can handle.

Belz a Double Hero. At the end of eight innings in New York last Saturday, Herm Belz had held Columbia to three hits and two runs, normally enough to win a ball game. However, the perennially meagre Princeton attack had produced only two hits and one run off the offerings of lefthander Warren Smith.

Garry Thrasher, playing right field in the still patched-up Princeton lineup, opened the ninth by drawing a walk. A passed ball and a bunt by shortstop Tommy Frost chased him around to third, but pinch hitter Walt Kirn fanned.

That brought Belz to the plate, and the big Tiger pitcher promptly brought the Tigers in front by blasting the first pitch into the adjacent Harlem River for a home run. (See "We Congratulate," page 26.)

The Lions got two aboard with one out in their half of the round, but Herm fanned the next batter and got the last to roll weakly to third for an easy force play. He had also scored Princeton's first run in the fifth, crossing the plate on Pete Crispo's solid double to right, and was on base in three of his four times at bat.

Midweek Nightmare. Earlier in the week, a lineup that had two batterymen in the outfield and infielders playing strange positions because of a rash of injuries, had produced some extremely woebegone baseball. Undermining the pitchers with inept fielding, and unable to collect more than ten hits in 18 innings, the Tigers lost to Villanova, 6-0, and Seton Hall, 7-3.

At one point, they were debited with 29 consecutive scoreless innings. Meanwhile, inexperienced reserve outfielders played routine flies into doubles and triples, making life miserable for Tiger hurlers.

Center fielder Dick Edie and first baseman Carl Belz are the principal casualties, both out of uniform with leg injuries. Both are good left-handed hitters and defensive standouts, and success on the upcoming two-day invasion of New England is doubtful without their services.

Another big problem to date is the inability of Captain Ed Seaman to return to the form that gave him an 8-1 record in his first two seasons on the varsity. Apparently hampered by the late spring, he has been pounded steadily and is visibly short of the control that stood him in such good stead last spring and the year before. Harvard is on tap at Cambridge Friday, followed by Brown at Providence Saturday and Penn at River Field, Philadelphia, next Wednesday. With Dartmouth still well out front by virtue of a 3-0 mark, the Tigers (1-1 and tied with Penn and Navy for fourth) must win all three to stay in the running.

BOOM! BOOM! BOOM!

Trenton Nines Shell PHS. Harry Zoll, in his sophomore season as head coach of the Princeton High baseball team, promised several lineup changes for this Thursday's contest with Hamilton High following a pair of unexpectedly one-sided losses to Trenton High and Trenton Catholic. The Little Tigers will meet the Hornets on the PHS diamond at 3:30 P.M., and Princeton's starting nine is likely to be anything but familiar to close followers of the club.

In announcing his decision "to shake the boys up a bit and try to promote a little more hustle," Zoll said he didn't mind last Friday's 12-0 loss to THS—"a mighty fine ball club"—but he did mind this Monday's 6-1 setback at the hands of the Wave, "a team we very easily could have beaten." Sloppy maneuvers, four errors and a generally impotent attack in the game with TC prompted his "new look" thoughts, the coach explained.

Jack Lackey, the sophomore lefthander who looked so impressive in posting Princeton's opening day win over Ewing, "wasn't himself" in the Trenton Catholic contest. He was hit hard for eight safeties, as the Wave went ahead in the second inning for keeps, and he struck out only four while walking a half-dozen. In the last frame, he was lifted for right-hander Bob Walker, who sizzled during his brief stint.

PHS Catcher Alan Ammerman stroked a double, for Princeton's longest hit of a long afternoon on the Catholic field, but he committed two miscues, his lacklustre play causing Zoll to replace him with Junior Bill Walssenburger while Walker was on the hill. Captain Bryce Chase, Steve Hogarty, Arnie Skaar and Bruce Sandvich contributed singles in the losing effort, Sandvich's hit driving in the lone PHS tally. "A little more fight and we might well have come out on top," Zoll observed. "We simply ignored too many scoring opportunities."

Last Friday, also in Trenton, the Tornadoes displayed their great depth and strength in routing PHS with five runs in the first inning, two in the second, one in the fourth, two in the fifth and two in the sixth. Walker was the victim of the home team's nine-hit attack for five frames, with Jack Hawkins coming in to give up two runs on only one hit in the sixth. Al Downing went all the way on the mound for Trenton, striking out 11, walking three and permitting only four Princeton safeties.

Hawkins singled in the fourth for the Little Tigers' first hit of the day, and subsequently Hogarty, pinch-hitter Walssenburger and George Wilson, back in action, also collected singles. However, Chase—after a pass—was the sole visitor to reach third base against the Tornadoes' effective junior southpaw. Ammerman went hitless for the first time since the 1956 campaign.

"New" Foes For PHS

As noted briefly in TOWN TOPICS last week, Princeton High's varsity football team has lined up a "new" group III opponent, Mt. Holly, for its 1958 opener September 27. Coach Joe Jingoli, confirming the Mt. Holly arrangements, announced this week that his Little Tigers also have added Freehold, a group IV power and annual pre-season scrimmage foe of PHS, to the regular slate. Mt. Holly and Freehold will fill gaps left by Hamilton and Peddie, giving Princeton a much-desired eight-game schedule, four home tests and four away.

The '58 grid slate, released by Jingoli: September 27, Mt. Holly (Away); October 4, Freehold (A); October 11, Leonardo (Home); October 17, Trenton High (H); October 25, Trenton Catholic (A); October 31, Somerville (H); November 8, Long Branch (A); November 15, Ewing (H). With Hamilton out of the picture, Mercer County's mythical crown, to be defended by Princeton, will be sought by four teams instead of five—PHS, THS, Trenton Catholic and EHS.

TOUGH DEBUT

PHS Track Team Beaten. Coach Win Niles unveiled his 1958 varsity track team this past week—a team he thought would represent Princeton High well in dual meet competition—and the Little Tigers were beaten badly by Highland Park High, 82-35. "We'll meet nothing worse during the rest of the season than we ran into last week," Niles confided, adding that he ranks the Owls among the best high school track powers he has ever seen, group II and otherwise.

Figuring that Highland Park is one of the best, PHS remained undismayed as it met New Brunswick High in its second dual test this Wednesday—too late for inclusion of results in the current issue of TOWN TOPICS—and will face Long Branch here at 5:30 P.M. next Tuesday. Meanwhile, Niles will take his mile relay quartet, composed of Marty McGuinn, Jim Kennedy, Ken Cooper and John High, to the Penn Relays this weekend.

Against the talented Owls, Princeton managed only four victories in nine events, and these four were shared by two Little Tigers. Wyn Jennings captured the 100-yard dash in 10.5 and the 220 in 26.7, the latter a time which appeared amazingly slow until re-measurement of the Princeton course showed the sprinters actually had covered 240 yards. Roddy Pannell took the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 6 inches and the broad jump at 20 feet 1 inch.

Despite these notable PHS efforts, Doug Kerr of the visitors claimed the meet's top honors, grabbing three firsts — both hurdles races and the javelin throw (170 feet). Gerald Donlon also copped two events for Highland Park, grabbing wins in the discus throw and the shot put.

Niles said he was disappointed with many of his boys' showings, including Roger Wells' third place in the mile run, an event that was won in 4:50. "Roger should be under 4:50 all the time," his coach pointed out, "and I think he will start proving me right soon." Niles praised Nelson

Coughlan, who finished third and looked good in the 400, a 52.6 triumph for Highland Park.

The Little Tigers' outlook was dimmed considerably this Monday, when Niles learned that Fennell, Lamont Fletcher, a promising freshman who tied for second in the low hurdles against the Owls, and four others have been suspended from the squad for the rest of the spring due to scholastic problems. The only encouraging news was the report that Co-Captain Lou Reiger, out with a case of measles last week, is ready to go in his two specialties, the discus and shot.

HUN DEFEATED

By Veteran Lacrosse Team. Making its bow as a member of the newly formed Interstate Lacrosse League, Hun School lost last Saturday, 13-4, to a veteran New York Military Academy club. Coach Hawley Waterman's Princeton prepsters will do their utmost to make amends this weekend, with a Friday test against the Rutgers University freshmen in New Brunswick and a Saturday meeting here with the Scarsdale Lacrosse Club at 12:30 P.M.

Depth proved a big factor for the visiting New Yorkers and minor illnesses plagued the Johnny Huns, but, even so, the match was closer—for half of it, at least—than indicated by the final score. Co-Captain Warner Hauptli, from his attack post, tallied two of Hun's goals, while Co-Captain Jim DeLong, from his midfield assignment, made one, as did defenseman Bud Filter, a junior. Norman Kasser was praised for his work in the Red and Black goal, where he totaled 35 saves during the afternoon.

BOWLING NOTES

With only a few weeks remaining before the end of their yearlong, red-hot race, members of the Tri-County Firemen's League turned on the heat this past week at Princeton Recreation Center — representatives of Belle Mead, paced by Art Parr's 618 series (234-190-194) and games of 230 and 204 by Elmer Drake and Bill Bergen, respectively, were the most successful and, as a result, the loop-leading team (121 wins) extended its margin over Princeton No. 1 (117) and Kingston (111)—Jack Sutphin's 243 was the week's top score among the firemen, but was hardly enough to prevent his Princeton Junction outfit from relinquishing the league's seventh spot to Rocky Hill—other top rollers included Bill Davall, 232, Ken Luck, 213, Bip Davison, 213, Pat DeAngelo, 212, Jack Stout, 212, Henry Sutphin, 210, Jack Rhubart, 207, and Elmer Van Marter, 201—meanwhile, the Industrial League tightened up again, with Wengryn Construction pulling into a first-place tie with Nassau Del (48 apiece), the reformers (46) claiming undisputed possession of the runner-up slot and Glenmoor deadlocking Nassau Service (44 each) in the No. 3 position—Rudy Lehnert's 231 was the loop's top score, followed by Douglas DeCicco, 222, Ed Lemore, 201, and Henry Sutphin, 200.

Tiger Bus (70) continued its merry romp in the Princeton "A" League, sweeping its match from last-place Yeoman's (30) while

KEY(STONE) TO SUCCESS? Two hometown products, Princetonians Tommy Petrone (left) and George Cramer, currently are holding down a pair of starting positions on Hun School's varsity baseball team. They are two good reasons why Bob McGivney, the Red and Black's rookie coach, believes his first season will be a winning one. Freshman Petrone, the club's shortstop, and senior Cramer, a player who can handle many assignments, are shown practicing maneuvers around second base, though Cramer probably will see most of his action in the outfield. Petrone is the son of Francis J. Petrone, 15 Erdman Avenue, and Cramer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Cramer, 654 State Road. (Photo by H. Chachowski)

HERM BELZ
Princeton Pitchar

When Herm Belz hit a home run to beat Columbia on the Lions' Baker Field Saturday, he failed to make the most of the melodramatic possibilities. In story-book fashion, there were two out, it was the ninth inning and his team was trailing by one run. But instead of carrying matters right down to the wire by waiting until they had two strikes on him, he hit the first ball pitched far over the center field fence into the Harlem River.

With Garry Thrasher perched on third, that made it 3-2 for the Tigers, and Belz then proceeded to nail down the triumph by completing a five-hit performance during which he was credited with nine strikeouts. The victory snapped a three-game losing streak, raised Princeton from the cellar to a fourth-place tie in the young Eastern League race and gave the Orange and Black a fighting chance to catch pace-setting Dartmouth.

While the home run was a Hollywood finish, it was no fluke: Belz is a strapping 6-3, 190-pounder whose hitting ability would undoubtedly land him an outfield berth if he were not far more valuable as a pitcher. Clear indication of what he is worth in that role came as early as his sophomore year, when last June he became the first Princeton pitcher to beat Yale on successive Saturdays in 15 years.

Slower than average afoot, Herm nonetheless demonstrated his versatility as an athlete last winter when he stepped from a substitute to a starting role in basketball. He and brother Carl starred in both sports at Haddon Heights and as freshmen before making varsity headlines to give Princeton one of the few standout "twin acts" in its athletic history.

Herm's success lies in a combination of ability and lasting-power, blended with an easy-going personality that nonetheless has its full share of determination. In his first starting assignment at University Field, he hurled for 14 innings against a strong Lafayette team in a game that Princeton eventually won in an inning after he had been removed to prevent arm strain on a cold day. This season, as he demonstrated last Saturday in New York, a major share of Princeton's success will depend on what the team can do afield and at the plate to back up the strong right arm of Herm Belz.

second-place Farr Hardware (48) was losing all its games to the fourth-place Farmers (40)—the pace-setting club got plenty of individual support, notably Phil Wesp's 221, Bill Scuderati's 208 and Dick Edwards' 203, as only Russ Sutphin's 221 for third-ranking Grover Lumber (44) intruded on the leaders' monopoly—in the Princeton "B" League, with its outcome still very much in doubt, Tiger Bus (62) retained a slim lead over Titus Motors (60) and Maul Electric (63)—George Sella's 220 game helped the No. 1 team, while Ed Duncan's 625 series (212-197-216) bloistered the runner-up club—others in the top strata were Bud Cavanaugh, 225, Jack Lucey, 212, Bob Sapel, 208, and Don Schannel, 200.

Betty Snyder was the week's standout performer in the Princeton Women's Bowling League, with a 205 and 178 in three game, as Town Topics (76) extended its league-pacing margin over the Bermudians (71), Missettes (68) and Alykatz (67)—behind Betty were Judy Bernath, 198-161, Betty Cooper, 193-182, Sara Huneycutt, 184-174, Pat Walker, 184-172, Marilyn Lowe, 179-178, Pat Golden, 176, Frances Friel, 172, Jean McDowall, 171, Helen Cherry, 168, "Johnny" Irven, 169, and Hazel Robbins, 169-168—Nassau Service (94) gained appreciably on Cifelli's (95) in the Women's Industrial League, in which the stalwart bowlers were Sandy Bertrand, 194, Angie Cifelli, 187, Carole Harris, 186-183, Barbara Rozel, 180, Gilda DeVido, 178, and Betty Frazee, 177.

SEASON'S OPENERS

Full Slate for Midgets. The Princeton YMCA's popular Midget Baseball League, divided into National and American divisions, will launch its 1958 season next week with all 12 clubs scheduled to participate in two games each, weather permitting. As was the case last year, the six National teams will play their games every Monday and Thursday, while the American teams will have their contests Tuesdays and Fridays.

Robert Bredenberg, general manager of the "Y"-supervised circuit, said all of the loop's members will have uniforms when the campaign gets underway, though three of the teams—the Redlegs, Tiger and Athletics—still are without sponsors. He noted also that Jack Houghton has replaced Tom Smith as manager of the Redlegs.

All Midget contests will start promptly at 6:16 p.m. The opening week's schedule:

Monday - Princeton Rotary Club Dodgers vs. PMI Giants, Princeton Country Day School Field; Music Shop Braves vs. Patrolmen's Benevolent Association Cardinals, Mercer Field; Plainsboro

ERRORS APLENTY

All Seven Runs Unearned. The scorebook gave Princeton seven earned runs and New York University's baseball team none, but the scoreboard showed a 7-7 tie at the end of ten innings. Right-hander Joe Burns, who scattered seven hits and struck out 11, was the victim of five horrendous infield errors—every one of them committed on a potential double play ball.

The Tigers' shoddy defensive performance on Tuesday erased a 5-0 lead they held as early as the first inning and a 7-4 margin they enjoyed going into the eighth. Also nullified was an 11-hit barrage, far and away their best of the season, that included solid triples by Mike Ippolito and Tommy Frost.

Two walks, a wild pitch, a passed ball, three singles and a double got the home team away in a hurry as it rolled out to a 5-0 margin before three men had been retired. In the gathering dusk two and a half hours later, however, the best it could do was settle for a tie to tack onto its 2-7 record. N.Y.U. had won seven of nine before the deadlock.

Injuries still have three key Tiger players benched. Hopes are that Gene Locks will return to third this weekend, with Carl Belz at first once more and Dick Edie available in center.

HUN ROLLING

Two Wins, One Loss. Coach Bob McGivney's hustling Hun baseball team pushed its season's mark to 3-1 Tuesday afternoon by blanking Germantown Friends, 5-0, behind the impressive four-hit hurling of Fred Andrew, former Princeton Country Day School ace. The sophomore right-hander, accepting his first starting assignment for the Red and Black, struck out a pair and walked one in posting his initial triumph.

Princetonians George Cramer and Tommy Petrone got Hun off winging by singling in runs in the first and second innings, respectively, but it was Dave Phares' two-run homer in a three-run fifth frame outburst that really settled matters for the home club. The round-tripper was the second in the last two games for the switch-hitting Phares, who socked Tuesday's from the right side and last Friday's blast from the left. Dick Berger was the only other Hun player to manage a safety as the victors also collected four hits.

Andrew's potential was sensed by McGivney on April 16, when he came in to relieve Roger Phares against Admiral Farragut Academy and finished up with two scoreless innings. The damage was done by that point, however, and the visiting Sailors handed the Johnny Huns their sole loss to date, 7-3, on only three hits. Walks by Phares—six of them— and two costly Hun bobbles enabled Farragut to tally the two runs in each of the first three rounds, plus one in the fifth.

The Red and Black touched Farragut pitching for eight safeties, but too few of them were garnered with men in scoring position. Cramer started wielding a hot bat, getting three hits in four trips, including a solid double, and Dave Phares and Lou D'Ambrosio contributed to the losing cause with two singles each.

Last Friday, over in the Philadelphia area, McGivney's charges produced a 19-hit attack against Bryn Athyn to smother the home team, 17-8. Charley Bennett gave up 11 Bryn Athyn safeties, but staggered to his second victory of the campaign on the strength of Dave Phares' two-run blast, highlight of a four-run opening inning, and Captain John Kenrick's circuit sock in the seventh. Everyone in the Hun lineup collected at least one hit, Kenrick leading the plate parade with four-for-five and Dave Phares and Marshall Jenny getting three bingles apiece.

This Thursday at 3:30 p.m., Hun will meet Pennington Prep here, and Bennett very likely will go after his third triumph, what with Bob Gottschalk still recovering from a recent illness. The Johnny Huns will travel to Wilmington next Tuesday to face Tower Hill.

PCD WINS OPENER

Tops Witherspoon, 10-6. Although held to a lone hit, Princeton Country Day School's baseball team made errors, walks and stolen bases count heavily Monday afternoon as it topped Witherspoon, 10-6, on the Broadmead diamond. It was the first game for both teams.

After the victors had jumped out to a 3-0 lead, Witherspoon came back to lead 4-3, largely on the strength of a home run by shortstop Garry Grover. Jobe Stevens, winning hurler, settled down thereafter, coasting in after his mates pushed seven more tallies across in their half of the second.

Country Day will travel to Lawrence Junior High this Thursday afternoon. On Monday, the Blue and White entertains the Peddie Juniors.

News Of The CHURCHES

FOR REST AND PRAYER

In "Merwick's" Chapel. Next to the bright and cheerful living-room where "Merwick's" residents sip their afternoon tea is a tiny chapel, exquisitely proportioned, perfectly detailed and mellow with memories of the Matthews family who used it for private worship when "Merwick" was their home.

It was a condition of "Merwick's" transfer to the hospital for its geriatric unit that regular services be held in the little chapel which Bishop Paul Matthews had added to the house.

After the house was remodeled for hospital purposes, services were begun on Sunday, August 4, 1957 and they have been held every Sunday since that time. At first there were only four "Merwick" residents to attend services and music was provided one Sunday by a choir of two: Mrs. Douglas Stuart of the hospital staff and her husband who sang unaccompanied hymns.

Services are held each Sunday at 2 p.m., by members of the Princeton Pastors' Association serving in turn. The chapel is nominally an Episcopalian one and Trinity's Altar Guild provides flowers and keeps the beautiful altar linen in order. There is a small organ in the chapel, played on Sundays by Jean MacCuiston, student at Westminster Choir College.

The little chapel seats 21 worshippers on its dark oak pews, cushioned with green velvet. The floor is terra-cotta colored tile. The chapel juts out from the main building and it has, on each side, stained glass windows arranged in groups of three, each window devoted to an Apostle. Single windows, one of Luke and one of Paul, flank the altar.

In spite of the chapel's minute dimensions (worshippers in the front row are only three feet from the altar) it has its own tiny sundry. Bishop Matthews' big oak chair, his oratory and all his altar pieces have been left in the chapel for "Merwick" worshippers who come there each Sunday afternoon.

Bulletin Notes. "Science in the Bible," Christian Science radio program this Sunday, 9:30 a.m., WCBA and WCAU. Speaker: Mrs. Helen Wood Bauman.

"A Place to Live," theme of May Fellowship Day Luncheon sponsored by nine member churches, Princeton Council of Church Women, next Wednesday, 12:30, Friends Meeting House, Quaker Road; speakers: Stewart Wallace, Princeton Housing Associates; Mrs. Simeon Moss, Princeton Housing Group. Reservations: Mrs. Kenneth L. Maxwell, WA 1-9366.

"Thunder on Sycamore Street," play by author of "Twelve Angry Men," given under sponsorship of Women's Association First Presbyterian Church next Friday, May 2, 8:30 p.m., Auditorium of Princeton Seminary. Public invited to free performance.

Library at First. A new 250-vol. ume library of church school books has been set up at First Presbyterian Church for the use of any church in Princeton that needs it. Eventually the new library will expand into program aids for adult church groups, books for group and individual devotion, visual aids, and possibly a catalogue of First church historical documents. Mrs. David R. Saunders is chairman of a library committee consisting of Miss Margaretta Barr, Miss Isabelle Stouffer, Miss Elizabeth Thomas, Sumner Irish, John Valley and the Rev. Scott T. Ritenour.

THE GROUND IS TURNED and here a church will grow. Young Teddy Vogt, four, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vogt, takes his little shovel and breaks ground for the new Calvary Baptist Church that will rise on the corner of Walnut and Houghton. Teddy performed his duties last Sunday before a congregation of 140. Behind Teddy, who is the grandson of the late H. Theodore Sorg, one of the founders of the church, is his father, The Rev. James H. Middleton, pastor of Calvary, and the Rev. Ralph Drisko, director of church extension for the New Jersey Baptist Convention, watch the proceedings. Following the ground-breaking, the Rev. Mr. Middleton led congregation in a Litany of Dedication. The S. C. Taylor Company of Philadelphia has already begun building operations and they expect to complete the church by the end of the year. PLEASANT HOUSE
PLEASING PRICE
for $39,000

This is the same house we described earlier—rambling 3 br. ranch on 2 acres sloping down through bird-filled trees to a winding brook, etc.—but there's one difference. The owners, being realistic, have decided to lower their price to $35,000 and stick with it. One thing we didn't mention is that you could sell a lot on the side for a good price, and still have a nice house with the same beautiful private setting.

THREE GOOD BUYS at $35,000: 2 ranches, 1 two-story frame.

LARGE SELECTION NEW HOUSES: 3, 4, 5 b.r., nice locations: Ranches, Colonials, Splits; $15,900 - $52,500.

TWO LINE TEASERS

Cute 2 b.r. ranch, paneled l.r., nice condition—$12,000.

Cape Cod, 2 b.r., room for one other on 2nd floor—$17,900.

Built like a rock, 3 b.r. ranch, basement, pretty kitchen—$18,500.

Cape Cod, expansion attic, finished basement with bar—$19,500. Adjoining lot—$5,000. Or both together—$23,500.

Comfortable Borough house, large rooms, basement playroom—$24,-800.

Two story frame, 4 b.r., 2 baths, brook, Borough—$28,500.

West end split, superb setting, large lot, rec. room—$37,000.

Charming town house, 4 b.r., den, separate d.r., dropped l.r.—$38,500

West End, 30 ft. l.r., 4 b.r., 2 protected acres, best offer over $60,-000.

Outstanding restored Colonial, 3 b.r., 2 l.r., acreage with long view can be subdivided—$75,000.

Gracious 19th Cent. house, 12 acres, tenant house, perfect condition—$85,000.

LARGE, LOVELY AND LIVABLE
for $79,500

To our way of thinking, the layout of this immaculate house on a lovely street in the West End is as perfect for a large family as any house we've seen. Large, airy living (with built-in bar) and dining rooms, den, excellent kitchen, dinette, playroom, and maid's room and bath on the first floor; six delightful bedrooms and three baths on the second floor; attic and dry basement big enough for ping-pong table, laundry and storage, out-of-this-world closets everywhere—what more could any family need? And size notwithstanding, the house is so compactly laid out that it can easily run without the usually hard-to-get staff. As a topper, the beautifully landscaped grounds overlook the golf course.
